Direct marketing employment survey results for Fourth Quarter, 2008.

Owatonna, MN (PRWEB) October 6, 2008 -- Direct marketers are coping with the slumping economy by making deep cuts in their hiring plans for the remainder of 2008, according to the latest Bernhart Associates employment survey.

"Every one of our major employment indicators showed significant declines compared with summer and now stand at their lowest levels since the survey began 8 years ago," said Jerry Bernhart, owner of Bernhart Associates Executive Search, LLC, and a leading direct marketing recruiter.

According to the survey, 31% of companies responding said they plan to add to headcount during the current fourth quarter, down sharply from 47% last quarter. Hiring freezes spiked to 34%, compared with 20% during the summer. The percentage of companies planning layoffs rose to 17%, also a new high for the survey and up from 12% last quarter.

In 2007, direct marketing accounted for 10.2 percent of total U.S. gross domestic product, employing more than 10 million people in the United States.

"We always ask companies that have a hiring freeze when they plan to lift it. Very few were able to give us a definite time frame, and that really underscores the mood of uncertainty that's out there right now. In addition, most of the new hiring will be replacements rather than new additions," said Bernhart.

Bernhart acknowledged that results could have been influenced by the timing of the survey, which was sent out just as the credit squeeze was reaching crisis levels. But Bernhart said that direct marketing employment has been in a downtrend all year, and the continued economic malaise is only making things tougher.

"As a direct marketing recruiter I'm in the trenches everyday talking with candidates and employers, and clearly the job situation is worsening. There are fewer opportunities out there and it's taking longer for job seekers to land. Many have little choice but to seek out consulting work as a back-stop until things begin to improve," stated Bernhart.

"Despite the gloomy outlook, nearly one-third of survey participants are still hiring and most don't have a hiring freeze," Bernhart added. "Certain job categories are holding up much better than others." When asked what positions employers intend to fill during the coming fourth quarter, Bernhart said sales and analytics dominated the list.

A total of 110 companies responded to the random survey which was emailed in mid-September.
